lice officials were prepared for the action he took.

Just why the Commissioners acceded to Burlingame's demand for suspension and immediate trial has been the subject of discussion. Actually the Commissioners were in no better position to prove anything detrimental against Burlingame yesterday than they were two weeks ago. But the Commissioners found themselves in an extremely unpalatable situation and were anxious to find a way out.

Burlinghame yesterday showed no special mark of strain or worry about the affair.

"Well, the smoke goes up the chimi just the same," Burlingame told Maj. Hesse when he presented his request for suspension, and thanked the police chief for his kindness and fairness tonounced aversion, decided there was to be no more teaching in the house. The spinster daughter did not allow this dictum to pass without protest. Neighbors and police had to interfere frequently when the quarrels became serious. Mrs. Bischoff, it was said, beat her daughter with a cane to enforce her commands.

Miss Bischoff finally gave up the home lessons and went to Columbia University, where she taught music twice a week. There were no more dis-turbances at the house. But the in-justice rankled in the daughter's mind. According to the story constructed by detectives, Miss Bischoff awoke early this morning. Still dazed by the hallucinations that haunted her during the night, it is believed, she picked the night, it is believed, she picked up an axe and went to her mother's bedroom. Having accomplished the ghastly murder, she went down to the ground floor, wrote her pathetic apologies and placed in her mouth a tube connected with an open gas jet. When Mrs. Mary Fusch came to the house to do the biweekly cleaning, she smalled the escaping fumes. Her repeated pounding on the door bringing peated pounding on the door bringing no response, she called Harry Sowefel. 12, who lives next door. The boy got a ladder and climbed in through a almost to shreds. On the floor was the blood-stained ax.

Dr. Edwin Sinsabaugh, the family physician, told police that Miss Bischoff suffered from hallucinations and believed herself to be in the power of an undefined, but potent "evil force."

Mrs. Bischoff's husband, Franklin, son of Henry Bischoff, an importer and private banker, started annulment proceedings against her shortly before his death. He believed he had obtained a decree and married another woman. But during the settlement of his estate, the first Mrs. Bischoff succeeded in having the annulment declared invalid. She and her two daughters were made the beneficiaries of the trust fund which gave them an income of about $20,000 a year.

CAPPER LINKS U. S. TO LEAGUE, CHARGE

Borah Comes Out Against His Senate Resolution: Doctrine Not New.

COOLIDGE OPPOSES IT

By ALBERT W. FOX. war treaty as a stepping stone for American adherence to the League of Nations doctrine of "war to preserve peace" is seen here in the Capper resipeace" is seen here in the Capper resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday. The resolution, embodying the internationalist ideas of Prof. James T. Shotwell, of Columbia University. New York, found a cool reception.

The "insistent and well-nigh unanimous public demand" which the resolution claims by way of support found expression only in the view of Senator Burton, prominent League of Nations storous and leading internationalist.

Senators recall that President-elect Hoover was not impressed by this same Shotwell doctrine when it first appeared two years ago. The Coolidge administration was absolutely opposed to it, and officials as well as diplomated did not hesitate to explain the reason. In the first place, it is pointed out, the new doctrine virtually guarantees American participation in the next war whether that war breaks out in Asia, Europe or anywhere on the civilized globe.

Abolishes American Principles.

It means that abandonment of the American principle of neutrality and alcofness from foreign entanglements in favor of the league theory of regulating war by getting into it and punishing the power or powers selected to be the victims of international righteousness as dispensed by Unele Sam acting in the volunteer role of world umptre. Three of the provisions in the resolution would probably involve the United States in the next war, it is explained, while a fourth provision arouses interest here only because of the consequences which it is helieved would follow its adoption.

Considering the last point first, it is noted that Uncle Sam by the resolution is to decide which of two or more nations is the aggressor whenever a condition areas.

pire could be justified in deciding which nation violated the pact. By that time the new war would probably Might Start War Again.

It is suggested that the nations in conflict might even have signed a treaty of peace between them before the umplire's decision was rendered, and in the event the intrusion of an umpire-power might upset things and virtually bid the nations return to their war.

In the case of Great Britain and Egypt, for example, Uncle Sam would doubtless have to decide whether Egypt violated the pact by attempting to minimize British domination of its own country or whether Britain was the violator by attempting to maintain her domination and power.

If Uncle Sam as umpire decided against Egypt he would have the doubtful satisfaction of helping Great Britain maintain her grip on a subjugated and unwilling people.

If he decided against Great Britain he would first follow the prudent course of recalling American commerce off the seven seas before at impling any sanctions, unles he should decide to protect the Nation's commerce with a very much greater fleet of warships than is now available.

The first three points in the Capper resolution call for an embargo of arms and munitions against the nation or nations which violate the pact, punishment of American citizens who assist such nations, and pressure upon other governments to join the United States in punitive measures against the violator or violators.

Finish of Neutrality Seen. Neutrality, it is admitted, would go by the boards at once, under any such procedure. America would lay down the rule of punishing one nation or group of nations and not punishing the

In other words, America would be in the war at the start at least to some extent. She would, it is explained, be assisting one group of nations defeat the other.

The nations gratuitously marked for defeat would naturally protest, demand a cessation of American aid and comfort to her enemies, threaten re-prisals and even go to war against the United States rather than suffer a lingering death if national existence was threatened.

was threatened.

Reprisals would assume a variety of forms, it is pointed out. Neutrality rules on the high seas would not apply to America if America were not in fact neutral, it is explained.

Any American property or business interests in any country marked for defeat by the United States Government would be fair prey to a nation fighting for her existence. It would be only a matter of days or weeks, it is only a matter of days or weeks, it is generally asserted, before America be-came fully drawn into the war in or-der to enforce her role of umpire of righteousness upon an ungrateful part of the world.

Bombay Riots Claim 4 More Dead, 36 Hurt

Bombay, India, Peb. 11 (A.P.).—The city today had its quietest day in more than a week. There were m general riots, but many isolated assaults brought the total casualties for the day to 4 killed and 36 injured.

Although shops were reopening in some portions of the city, the railroads had to provide augmented service to convey out of the city terror-stricksn persons fearing further bloody fighting between Hindus and Pathan Mohammedans.

3 AVIATION RECORDS SMASHED BY GIRL, 17

Bobby Tront of Los Angeles Remains Aloft More Than 17 Hours.

FLIES PLANE ALL NIGHT

Mines Field, Los Angeles, Feb. 11 (A. .).-The women's world endurance hight record, tossed about for more West Coasts, came down with a sharp echo of victory for the Pacific side o the Nation today after the Golder Tagle monoplane of Miss Bobby Trout had flown continuously for 17 hours 5 minutes, 37 seconds.

The pretty Los Angeles girl aviator whose chin set firmly last week when she learned that Miss Elinor Smith, of New York, had beaten her prev.ous mark and subsequently announced that "it won't stand very long." proved her boast today by a margin of 3 hours, 48 minutes, 52 seconds. Miss Smith's record was 13 hours, 16 minutes, 45 seconds, while Miss Trout's formerk mark was 12 hours, 11 minutes, made January 1.

January 1.

Together with her endurance mark, two other records dangled from the shining wings of her plane one of which was certain and one of which remained in doubt. She had exceeded the night flying record for women of 8 hours, for she flew the whole night through and it was conceded that inasmuch as there are only twelve hours of night, her record is quite unbeatable. The third mark, the women's distance flying record, was a bit befogged. With her 60-horsepower motor rolling out a mile a minute speed, Miss Trout actually flew about 1,050 m.les. but official cognizance of the distance rested ficial cognizance of the distance rested upon the number of laps she weaved out between the pylons of her II-mile course, and this had not been officially computed. The present record is 932 miles.

The slender girl was haggard and aleepy, but her plane made a graceful landing and she immediately expressed regret that she could not have remained aloft longer. Lack of gasoline put a definite time limit on her attempt.

The monoplane sailed away at 5:10:45 clock Sunday afternoon with a load of 80 gallons of gasoline, which was considered unusually heavy for the mail ship. The motor whirled normally at the landing and but little gas renained to fire the engine Her only cood on the flight was a sack of oranges, many of which had disappeared.

GOVERNOR ON TRIAL LOSES 3 DECISIONS

Impeachment Court Admits Questions Held Immaterial in Oklahoma Case.

MRS. HAMMONDS PRESENT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 11 (A.P.) Plunging without ceremony into its major contention-that Henry S. Johnston is not competent to remain as Governor of Oklahoma—the louse of representatives board of managers to-day won three legal skirmishes in its prosecution of Johnston before the senate impeachment court.

Johnston's trial on eleven articles of the property presents are senated by the bourse.

impeachment preferred by the house opened this morning. By consent, the board of managers began presentation of evidence on all charges with that of incompetence uppermost. The charges will be voted upon separately when all evidence its in evidence is in.

Without avail, counsel for the suspended governor objected on three occasions to the trend of questioning on the ground that it was immaterial to the charge. Charles W. Mason, chief justice of the Supreme Court, who is presiding over the trial, overruled the first objection and the senate voted down the two others.

Pardon of Slayer Cited.

Testimony centered about the pardoning last December of R. D. Crossthwaite, convicted murderer and fugitive from justice. Johnston's attorneys objected to testimony relating to Crossthwaite's slaying of Thelma Lovejoy, young Oklahoma school teacher, in 1918, and stories of her brother's and father's protests after they had learned of the pardon, on the ground that it was not pertinent to the charge and was rejudicial.

Testimony along that line was aban-doned after Thomas H. Owen, of the governor's counsel, said he would ad-mit any of the prosecution contentions as to the pardon except that it was corruptly and unlawfully issued. Owen said H. E. Sullivan, private secretary to Johnston, had misled the governor in

Body Found in Ice May Solve Mystery

Believed That of Missing Terre Haute Newsgirl;

Thaw Is Awaited. Thaw Is Awaited.

Villa Grove, Ill., Feb. 11 (U.P.).—The search for Edith Mae Dierdorf shifted here today in the belief that a body discovered under the ice in a railroad reservoir might be that of the 10-year-old Terre Haute newsgirl, who has been missing since January 27. Police said a hole large enough to permit passage of a child's body had been chopped in the 10-inch ice of the pond.

Attempts to reach the body with grapping hooks were futile, however, and the officers decided to await a thaw rather than use dynamite.

Edith Mae disappeared in an automobile after selling a paper to a customer. Her newspaper bag, stained with blood, was found near the highway west of Terre Haute, shortly after her disappearance. A reward of $3,000 has been offered for information leading to the discovery of the missing girl.

WAR DEBT EXPERTS NAME YOUNG CHIEF

American Chosen Chairman of Reparations Parley. Discussion Limited. MAY END WORK BY APRIL 1

Paris, Feb. 11 (A.P.).—The new commission of reparations experts got away to a businessilke start today. It elected Owen D. Young, of the United States, as chairman, decided to hold two neetings daily, redrafted and sent a telegram to Gen. Charles G Dawes, hoping that it would be "sbie to accompilah something as useful as did the Dawes committee."

The new body already has been dubbed the "Young committee." Its task is to "inish the work started five years ago by Gen. Dawes, Mr. Young and his colleagues, through form—lation of a plan for final reparation payments by Germany to her former enemies of the World War. This plan, it is expected, will include a new total for Germany to pay and perhaps a new determination of the number of years over which the instalments are to be spread.

Although the delegates were not supposed to talk about what happened at the meeting, it was learned that the word "debts" was not mentioned in the exchange of views that marked today's session. There seemed to be a compete understanding among the experts that the discussion was not to be bradened to such an extent that it would involve the ability of France and other debtor nations to reimburne Great Britain and the United States if the would involve the ability of France and other debtor nations to reimburse Great Britain and the United States if the German reparations totals are reduced. One of the first decisions of the commission was to do away with every possible formality so as to expedite business. The experts intend to finish their work before April 1. They decided that no secretary should be named, but that Fred Bate, secretary to Mr. Young, should be called on for such services as a commission secre-

Mr. Morgan and he left his seat for a minute or two to rest his eyes before the photographers finished.

Then the room was cleared, Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France, called the meeting to order and at once proposed Mr. Young for permanent chairman, without making any extended remarks. The nomination was approved unanimously, the formalities in respect to the secretaryship and fixing of the daily sessions at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. were disposed of and then the delegates expressed themselves on the subject before them.

Germany's Position Explained. M. Moreau led off with a statement on the French position. Mr. Morgan made a short talk on the American viewpoint and Dr. Hjaimar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, set forth in a tenminute speech what Germany hopes the experts will do. Other dalegates followed with brief summaries of their expectations.

Mr. Edison sat in an easy chair on his lawn. As Mr. Hoover approached he got up and strode cheerfully toward him. "Hello there, fisherman," he greeted in his piping voice. "Here they are," he said pointing to the waiting reporters and cameramen. It was, in fact, about the closest the newspaper men have been to the President-elect since they have been on this Florida trip with him.

The inventor kept up a lively conversation with Mr. Hoover, keeping the President-elect laughing and modding his head in vigorous negatives and affirmatives all the time. Everybody chatted freely on the lawn for a while, then they retired into the Edison home for the cutting of the big birthday cake. Subsequently there was what had all the earmarks of a parade, with a gayly uniformed form and bugle corps in the lead, but which the dignified townspeople insisted was just a ride through the town by Mr. Hoover and Mr. Edison. In the afternoon the Hoover party returned to the houseboat for some fishing in guif waters until Wednesday or Thursday, when it will return to Miami Beach.

The inventor likes Hoover. Burroughs, the naturalist; Edison, Ford and Firestone once invited Mr. Hoover to sit in on one of their periodical councils. Mr. Edison likes Mr. Cooling, too. He once said in just such an interview as he gave today that the President would choke to death if he tried to talk. Apparently he has not the same impression of Mr. Hoover that some of the job hunters who have called on him have, because they describe Mr. Coolinge as loquacious in comparison.

President Coolidge Fills Vacancies With Jansky

and Batcheller.

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge yesterday nomi nated Arthur Batcheller and C. M. Jansky, jr., to the Federal Radio Commission to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Commissioners Caldwell and Pickard. The Senate has yet to act on the selections.

Batcheller, who would succeed Caldwell, would have supervision of the castern and middle Atlantic zone, and Jansky would be in charge of the central and middle Western States. Both the proposed new commissioners are the proposed new commission electrical and radio engineers.

Has Been Inspector Has Been Inspector

Batcheller, a native of Massachusetts, has been a supervisor and inspector of the radio division of the Department of Commerce and the Radio Commission since 1917, serving in the New England and the eastern zone.

Jansky, a native of Michigan, has been a professor of radio engineering at the University of Minnesota since 1920 and a consulting radio engineer of the Radio Institute. He is a member of the board of directors of the ber of the board of directors of the American Radio Relay League.

The nominations reached the Capitol about the time the Senate commerce committee submitted a report recommending continuance of the commission as an administrative body for ansion as an administrative body for an other year after March 16, A similar recommendation has been made by a Souse committee which handles radio agisation.

Luggage Styles Have Changed a Lot in Fifty Years-But Experienced Travelers Are Still Choosing

BECKER LUGGAGE

Because Its Old-Fashioned Quality Remains Unchanged by Time

UNDOUBTEDLY there are travelers who have been guided in their choice of Becker Luggage by a feeling of attachment for an old-established house. But mere sentiment does not account for the fact that more travelers bought Becker Luggage during 1928 than ever before.

It is not sentiment to want the newest things, nor to want lasting quality. Nor is it sentiment that prompts the modern traveler to seek the best value for his money.

Buyers of Becker Luggage have learned that this store constantly presents the new things as soon as they appear . . . that its stock of modern luggage is unrivaled for completeness and variety. And they . know that Becker's still believes in old-fashioned quality . . . proved by its policy of standing squarely behind everything it sells.

As to value-comparison has always been the best judge of values. And it has led thousands of travelers to choose Becker Luggage and Leather Goods.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 11.—The Montgomery County delegation in the Maryland General Assembly tonight made a favorable report on a bill which will levy a 25 per cent tax on property in Garrett Park for road improvement.

Prince Georgee County's delegation introduced a bill validating the act of 1927, chapter 176, which authorized a bond issue of $106,000 for building a concrete road about the present Emonston road leading from East Riverdale to the Branchville road.

Twin hills of State-wide interest were introduced by Senator Mitchell, of Charles County, and Delegate Lindsay. They provide for a State-wide survey of State educational institutions with an idea of producing better educational advantages. The bills provide for a commission of seven, to be appointed by the governor, to survey State supported institutions, with especial application to the University of Maryland and the University Hospital.

Delegate Sweeny introduced a bill to legalize Armistice Day as a school holiday.

What a Comfort It Always Is —to be able to have all the beauty work you need, done at one place. At Russina's, 1609 Connecticut Avenue, you may have a face treatment, a shampoo and a wave and a manicure all at one sitting, everything going on at once and pleasantly. Haven't you been in some beauty establishments when to have more than one thing done at a time, was perfect agony? Well, at Russina's everything is done with such excellent system, so gently and quietly, that you hardly realize how the time has passed, when it is all over.

This is the place I told you about where you sit up to have your shampoo, which is done with Spanish Castile soap and a sponge. It's just wonderful!

Have you seen the glorious light effects in the windows of Russina in the evening, as you drive along Connecticut Avenue? One time the windows are flooded with soft purple radiance, another time orange or pale green, really very lovely.

NEW BRIBE CHARGES SEEN IN KEYES' CASE

Prosecutor Claims 7 Named in Confession by Man Already Convicted.

SENTENCE IS DEFERRED

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 11 (A.P.) .-District Attorney Buron Fitts said today that Ben Getzoff, convicted last day that Ben Getzoff, convicted last Friday as the "fixer" in the conspiracy to bribe with former District Attorney Asa Keyes and Ed H. Rosenberg, made a confession which "will rock the county to its foundations."

"Getzoff's confession involves seven persons not mentioned in the grand jury investigations and reveals that perhaps half a million dollars were paid to "fix' cases through the hands of the Spring street tailor," Fitts said.

Wan and broken, Getzoff left his cot in the jail hospital to appear with Keyes and Rosenberg for sentencing. After Superior Judge Hartley Shaw had postponed the pronouncement of the one to fourteen years penalty until Superior Judge Edward I. Butler, of Marin County, who heard the case, could return to hear arguments for retrial. Getzoff indicated that he wished to see Fitts.

Getzoff indicated that he wished to see Fitts.

Fitts locked himself in the district attorney's office with the tailor and told newspaper men a few minutes later that "Getzoff had confessed." At the same time Fitts issued a summons to A. I. Lasker, Los Angeles millionaire, to come to his office. Lasker, Keyes and Getzoff are accused in a secondary bribery conspiracy indictment with "fixing" the case of violation of the corporation securities act against Lasker. Keyes dismissed the case because of insufficient evidence, but Lasker was convicted after Fitts took office December 3, 1928.

Getzoff suffered a nervous collapse when the verdict of guilty was brought against Keyes, Rosenberg and himself last Friday. He fainted today upon entering the district attorney's office and was revived and began his confession, Fitts said.

Members of the district attorney's staff said that a complete confession by Getzoff might materially aid in clearing up investigations launched by the grand jury.

At the same moment the tricolors of Italy were unfurled from a hundred windows and balconies nearby and with them waved the gold and white of the papal flag—flying in reconciliation for the first time in nearly three score years.

One high Vatican 'prelate described the treaty as giving the Pope "sovereignty without temporal power," explaining that the pontiff foregoes his temporal powers, but in receiving sovereignty over the tiny papal kingdom becomes absolute master of his realm. This permits him liberty of action, without which he would encounter great difficulties in guiding the destinies of the church. It was not, he continued temporal power as such that the Pope sought, but just enough to render dignified and convenient his sovereignty over the spiritual empire.

In the first part of the treaty, the Pope relinquishes his temporal power and Italy cancels the law guarantees of 1870, which the Vatican has always believed were imposed upon it against

The first concordat between the church and state was signed in 1122 by Pope Callixtus and Emperor Henry V.

Newspapers and the public tonight rejoiced in the settlement especially since it was formally signed on the feast day of Our Lady of Lourdes.

"The hour of God has sounded for Italy" and "the world looks at the Italy of Mussolini reconciled with the custodian of the church of Christ," were some of the newspaper headlines. Pope Pius was informed of the details of the solemn signing immediately after noon, hearing his secretary of state's account of the great friendliness and courtesy f Musolini and the tense emotion which reigned in the great council hall—known as the "Hall of Popes"—when only the scratching of the pen broke the silence shortly after noon.

For several years, Dr. Morrill said, the directors at Columbia have been more or less worried over the financial situation, the work performed there being largely of a charity nature, but now that the hospital is included in the community chest budget for about $46,000, the problem of charity patients is ended.

THE CRAMTON SCHEME.

On the eve of a struggle between the Senate and House as to the proper sum which the United States should contribute to the maintenance of the government of the District of Columbia, it is proposed that a separate bill shall be enacted, saddling upon the taxpayers of the District the sum of $16,000,000 for the purchase of additional parks with which to adorn the national seat of government. The author of this bill, Mr. Cramton, of Michigan, is one of the leaders of the coterie in the House which stubbornly refuses to admit that the United States is bound to make a just contribution toward the upkeep of its seat of government. As a member of the conference committee he is expected to do his utmost, as heretofore, to compel local taxpayers to assume part of the burden that should be borne by all the taxpayers of the country.

The plea made in behalf of the Cramton bill is that the value of real estate suitable for parks is rapidly increasing and is being improved with buildings, so that, unless the land is acquired now, it can be acquired hereafter, if at all, only at enormously increased cost. Mr. Cramton therefore proposes that the United tates shall lend $16,000,000 to the District of Columbia, to be repaid at the rate of $1,000,000 a year.

As the United States is only about one-half of what it should contribute toward the annual cost of the District government, the effect of the Cramton bill would be to compel local taxpayers to contribute not less than 75 per cent of the cost of parks whose quisition is desirable solely because this is the National Capital. The municpality as such would not need these extensive parks, nor could it afford to sequire them unless it should grow to a metropolis of say 5,000,000 inhabitants.

The Cramton bill is an attempt to compel local taxpayers to finance the emlishment of the National Capital, and to relieve other taxpayers of the United States from that burden. No more deliberately unjust and arbitrary proposal has ever been submitted to Congress. It is essentially a dishonest scheme, inasmuch as its true purpose is concealed with intent to deceive both Congress and

The taxpayers of the District of Columbia recognize the fact that they enjoy advantages by reason of owning property at the seat of government. They have never opposed an assessment that approximated an equitable division of the burden of local government. For many years this division was made equally, and the development of the District, both as a municipality and as the National Capital, proceeded satisfactorily. Then such men as Mr. Cramton obtained places of power in Congress and shifted the heavy end of the load upon local taxpayers, correspondingly reving national taxpayers. Since that time there has been confusion and protest, and an abominable lack of public comfort in providing for streets, schools, sewers, lights, fire protection, and all ther modern necessities, as well as such uxuries as splendid parks and boulevards. Both as a municipality and as a Washington has been injured nd stunted in its growth by this de-

Before reaching into the future to addle a debt upon the taxpayers of this listrict for the purpose of making Fedral improvements, Congress should ave the decency to restore the equitable grangement whereby the Federal Government paid its share of the cost of the district government and the embellishment of the Nation's Capital nt of the Nation's Capital.

LET THE INDIANS WORK. If there is any one thing that the American rt would rather do than another, it seems the red man. Now and again some accuser appears to point the finger of condemnation at the Government because some one has been told out West that weevils were found in the flour at an Indian agency, or that some son of a proud chieftain has been required to hoe potatoes on an Indian boarding school farm for two whole hours, right out in the sun. The self-appointed guardians of the Indians hasten to seize their snickersnees and battle to venge these outrages.

But occasionally one appears to speak of the Indian in terms of practical common sense. In Sunday's Post appeared an article by William Atherton Du Puy in which, as an Indian commentator, he seems to have spoken quite out of character. He introduces an idea heretofore quite foreign to the Indian idyl. He suggests that the red man go to work.

It has been shown, it seems, that the mass of Indians are tragically poor. They live in hovels on isolated reservations, are insufficiently nourished, and, consequently, unable to resist disease. Health conditions are bad and the death rate is high. The reformers blame the Government. They cry for more doctors and more hospitals. They quite miss the fundamentals of the case, according to Mr. Du Puy. They do not seem to appreciate the fact that the Indian's plight is caused by poverty, and that the only permanent remedy lies in alleviating the poverty. The way to banish poverty in the case of the Indian is exactly the same as in the case of the white man, the Chinaman or the negro. It is to give him work to do at which he can earn a competence. The Indian on the reservation is idle. His old manner of life is gone, and few reservations offer him an opportunity to earn a living. It is out in a workaday world which cries for skilled and unskilled labor that opportunity lies. It is in working that any individual has his best opportunity. There is a job for every Indian in America. If Indian emotionalists would concentrate on establishing these wards of the Government as wage earners they would right most of the Indians' wrongs and solve the Indian problem.

MEXICAN UNREST.

Dynamiting of the train of Emilio Portes Gil. President of Mexico, in the State of San Luis Potosi Sunday morning, within 24 hours following the execution of Jose de Leon Toral, assassin of President-elect Obregon, indicates that all is not as serene in Mexico as the public has been led to believe. Unquestionably the dynamiting was in the nature of a protest against the execution. Possibly it may have been the work of a small group of Toral sympathizers, but the demonstration accompanying his funeral indicates otherwise.

With the election of Gen. Obregon to the Presidency of Mexico it was hoped and rather generally believed that the religious controversy that had come to a head in the Calles administration would be smoothed out. Gen. Obregon in his speeches and writings had intimated that solution of the question was a matter close to his heart. Toral, however, in fanatical zeal dashed such hopes to earth with his assassin's bullet.

Portes Gil is another to whom the outside world looks with some hope for a solution of the Mexican religious question. Although he is to hold office only until a presidential election is held in the fall, he already has indicated that he will not be content to occupy his office inactively until a successor to Obregon is elected, and it is believed generally that he is anxious to take propitiatory action with the church. The dynamiting of his train as an act of reprisal against the execution of Toral may serve to push further into the future the solution of the religious question.

KING GEORGE'S CONVALESCENCE.

King George V is convalescing in the sea air of Bogner on the Sussex coast. Hopes are running high in Britain that his removal from the foggy atmosphere of London to the sunny coast will bring about his complete recovery. Thousands of Englishmen gathered outside of Buckingham Palace to witness the departure of the king. He made the fourney in an ambulance, with a skilled nurse in attendance. On leaving the palace he was bolstered up with pillows so that his face could be seen by the anxious crowds, and when the watchers burst out with cheers he feebly waved his hand in recognition

The elaborate preparations that were made for the journey further indicate the state of the Ring's convalescence. The 64-mile highway was repaired and smoothed. The entire event was rehearsed and everything was carried out with the regularity of clockwork. The ambulance was carefully equipped to avoid the slightest shock to his majesty during the journey. The king will indulge in breathing exercises and take advantage of the Sussex sunshine. It will be some time before he will be able to see even his intimate friends, or to take short motor rides. He is anxious to resume some of his official business as soon as possible, but he has been strictly forbidden by his physician to give his attention to affairs of state.

In the meantime the official duties of the Prince of Wales are rapidly increasing as a result of his father's illness, and it may be that he will continue to relieve the king from many of the more arduous functions of state. A dispatch from London says that the prince has decided to give up hunting and racing because of his increased duties. However, the public concern over the prince's numerous mishaps in these sports, which has been accentuated by the recent precarious condition of the king, may also have had something to do with the decision.

LAX MARRIAGE LAWS.

The report of the Russell Sage Foundation resulting from a study of marriage law administration in 30 States would be full of humor were it not for the fact that the marital relation is the most serious and the most sacred covenant that men and women enter into. Laxity in the law, which in many States allows children to marry and in others makes it possible for persons to become man and wife while intoxicated, is deplorable enough, but when communities are found advertising their "marriage markets" it is time for an awakening of an intelligent public opinion on the subject. The study reveals that there are 57 towns in 39 States "worthy" of designation as "mar-that thing is to bleed because of the plight of , riage market towns." This means that more than half of the applicants for marriage licenses in those districts come from other districts where licenses are more difficult to obtain. In one town the justice of the peace was found advertising the looseness of the law and making small charges for securing licenses and keeping marriages a secret. Some towns have runners who hunt out prospective brides and bridegrooms and steer them to the marriage mills and divide the fees of the justice of the peace. Street car advertising is resorted to in one community, and in another the chamber of commerce boasts that the town offers excellent facilities for "resort marriages."

There is no excuse for such conditions in any State. The remedy against the "marriage markets" is obvious. Many of the States have eliminated such conditions by legislation requiring a lapse of time between the issuance of a license and performance of the ceremony. It is to be hoped that the report will arouse public opinion sufficiently to stamp out the most flagrant abuses,

BILL TILDEN WINS.

The forces of simon-pure tennis amateurism can hardly be said to have gained a victory in the reinstatement to their fold of William T. Tilden, ranking American star. Some six months ago Tilden was banned from the amateur ranks for alleged violation of the playerwriter rule in connection with his journalistic activities at the Wimbledon tournament. Several times since he has applied for reinstatement, but each time the United States Lawn Tennis Association failed to act. Last Friday he was reinstated as an amateur, but no pledge as to his future activities was exacted beyond a promise to abide by the existing rules. Tilden has asserted that he did not violate the rules, so it must be considered that he has won the victory in his brush with the governing body.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association has acted the child's part in dealing with the subject of amateurism. What is there about a professional tennis player that he should not be considered a fit competitor of an amateur? What is there about an amateur tennis player's outside activities that has any bearing upon his playing status? Is golf a less gentlemanly sport since amateurs and professionals are permitted to play together, or since amateurs are permitted, within reason, to engage in outside activities made extraprofitable because of their prowess with mashie and putter? The governing body of tennis alone has perpetuated the outworn tradition that there should be a subtle social distinction between the amateur and the professional. Tennis has suffered as a result.

Tilden has not been harmed by his sojourn outside the simon-pure amateur fold. Since his reinstatement is his victory, why should not the association now consider the matter of amateurism in its various aspects? The time has arrived when the imaginary barrier that has been maintained to protect the amateur should be destroyed.

THE CASE OF CUBA

By LUIS BETHART=

. The contacts and relationships between the United States and my country are much more far-reaching and more important than the mere question of how much sugar Cuba may Much more important, to the United States at least, is the impression made on all Latin America by whatever the American Government does to Cuba. Our little island has the close t historical and economical contacts of any nation or any American colony with the United States, and as a result may be likened to a sounding-board for the whole continent. If gigantic Uncle Sam in his dealing with pygmy Cuba is fair and above-board, if he follows his traditional policy of "live and let live," he inevitably disarms the suspicions of all Latin America.

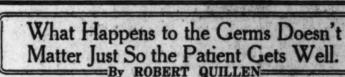

When on May 20, 1902, the United States gave over to the Cubans the governing of their country and they became an independent nation, the act was taken as proof by the world that the United States was not embarked on a program of territorial aggrandizement. That act is the one thing that the anti-American fingoes of Latin America have never been able to get around.

From a purely materialistic standpoint giving Cuba her freedom has not been such a bad investment for Uncle Sam. From a trade with the island in 1900 amounting to but $40,000,-000, the exchange of commodities between the two countries increased until in 1922 it reached a value of more than $40,000,000. In the abnormal year 1920, when prices were inflated, it amounted to almost one billion dollars. For more than a score of years American cabital has poured into Cuba in a steady stream and now American money to the total of $1.800 .-000,000 is invested there, in sugar, railroads, cattle, mines, &c. This almost two billions of American investments in Cuba may not bulk large alongside some of America's billion-dollar industries, but at this time of tariff revision it should not be forgotten that this is money invested in good faith by American citizens, that it has always had adequate protection from the Cuban government, and that now it is threatened with destruction.

The sugar industry in Cuba is owned, 65 per cent by Americans, 30 per cent by Cubans. Even the properties owned by Cubans have American capital in them or utilize American capital, since practically all the banking in Cuba is in the hands of Americans and Canadians.

I have been asked occasionally by American friends, "Why should the United States continue helping Cuba?" Usually I reply that by helping Cubs the United States is helping itself. Fostering trade with Cuba has helped American business, American labor, American agriculture, and the American merchant marine. It has also helped the American Government, because Cuban products bring into the American treasury more than one-fourth of the $600,000,000 collected annually by the American customs service. It has helped the American consumer by enabling him to buy cheaply the sugar he uses in his household.

If Congress takes the action which is threatened, if the almost two billions of American capital invested in Cuba are wiped out of existence, the United States will still be feeling the effects long after the jungle has closed over the last Cuban sugar mill to survive a tragically unwise economic policy.

Does the gasoline you buy have these qualities?

It should, if you are a careful buyer . . .

All gasoline (unless dyed) looks pretty much alike, but there are certain qualities that make one gasoline better than any other.

"Standard" Gasoline is the best "buy" on the market today, for "Standard" has these outstanding qualities:

Easy Starting - even in coldest weather.

Quick Acceleration - necessary in traffic.

Power, Steady and Reliable-for hill climbing and long,

Mileage Efficiency—proved over and over by road tests in Safety to Motor - a fuel that cannot possibly injure your engine.

Complete Combustion - a fuel that burns cleanly, leaving practically no carbon, and burns completely, leaving no "loose ends" to seep down and dilute the motor oil in the crank case.

Uniformity—you can set your carburetor on "Standard" and forget it, for every gallon is like every other gallon wherever you

Availability - "Standard" Gasoline has the further advantage of being easily obtained, as our red "Standard" pumps are conveniently located throughout the length and breadth of this State.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has had 59 years of experience in refining petroleum. It has a staff of over 300 men engaged solely in research work for the betterment of its products.

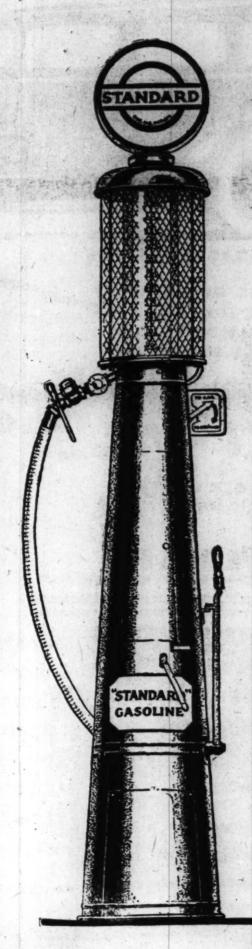

So, you can safely depend on "Standard" Gasoline being kept at top quality. If new methods develop further improvements in gasoline, "Standard" will have them.

Buy "Standard", the dependable quality gasoline.

There is no truly "anti-knock" motor fuel being sold, except at a premium price. The best known "anti-knock" fuel is ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel. It is acknowledged by engineers to be . in a class by itself—a genuine "antiknock" fuel, specially made for use in high compression motors, and in motors that are carbonized from long usage ESSO costs more to make, and has to be sold at a small premium over "Standard" Gasoline, but ESSO gives an extra engine performance never before experienced. On sale only at the Silver ESSO Pumps with the ESSO Globes.

FISHER BODY.... STYLE AND VALUE STANDARD OF

Fisher Body gives General Motors cars additional value no other cars can give. No other cars can put this several hundred dollars worth of additional value into their bodies because no one else has Fisher advantages or Fisher resources.

Everyone can measure this greater dollars and cents value in a minute because they can see it with their own eyes.

The advantages Fisher has over others are shown in finer finish than the others can afford-finer hardware and interior fitments than they can affordfiner upholstery than they can afford-finer and stauncher structural work than they can afford. Because they have not Fisher advantages and resources, others have to skimp on the inside and the outside of their bodies in order to hold down the price.

Fisher holds down the price and pushes the quality up beyond anything others can afford because General Motors gives it the volume and the never-ending economies which enable Fisher to continuously increase value while holding down price.

Whether you are chiefly interested in only two or three body features, or in body quality as a whole, you should by all means compare the Fisher Body car in the price field in which you are interested, with any or every other car in that field. Only then can you base your decision upon intimate knowledge of the facts.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL-

Private advices from the West Coast | that the "mixer" should be sufficiently stage by his wife, known to the public and the profession as Ruby Keeler.

Many Washington theatergoers will recall Miss Keeler as an especially agile tap dancer who stopped the show at every performance when she appeared late last summer at the local Fox Theater. She did the same for "Whoopee" during the few short weeks that she appeared in support of Eddie Cantor in his current hit.

Not unmindful of her unique endownments, Florenz Ziegfeld purposes to present the temperamental young dancer in the title role of "Show Girl," despite her having walked out on the Cantor whiz-bang even before it reached the Capital on its way to New York. However, 1 am told that the J. P. McKvoy character on the stage will be impersonated by "Mrs. Al Jolson" instead of by "Miss Ruby Keeler."
That old Mammy man has no notion of letting the name languish while he wallows in his new-found movie wealth.

Anyone who may still harbor the delusion that the talking screen is not progressing has only to contemplate the current bookings in the downtown, first-run houses to be given just a hint that perhaps he may be mistaken.

while all of the five downtown features are not all-talkie, they all do talk at some time or other during their development. The two holdovers—"The Redeeming Sin," at the Metropolitan, and "Alias Jimmy Valentine," at the Columbia—present dialogue sequences that are highly effective, and at the Palace, Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll are heard briefly, while Roscoe Karns chatters volubly as an irascible young stage manager. Miss Carroll brings the picture to a close to the dulcet strains of a song which she croons with no little pathos.

The Earle and the Fox both offer all-

The Earle and the Fox both offer all-talkie features, although apart from that single similarity they are in strik-ing contrast.

With all of this eloquent (sic) tes-timony to the advance and perfection of the articulate screen, it makes the timid days of "Glorious Betsy," "The Lights of New York" and "The Lion and the Mouse" seem a great deal longer the Mouse" seem a great deal longer ago than last fall.

In speaking of Nancy Carroll a few days ago, this column remarked that she would be visible and audible on both the Earle and Palace screens this week. Not only is she quite as ubiquitous as forecast, but Paul Lukas also is prominent in both casts.

The Earle affords, this suave young Hungarian his more fruitful opportunity, while the Palace performs a comparable function for Miss Carroll. Both are worth seeing.

And while we are on the topic of Paramount talking pictures—both "The Wolf of Wall Street" and "The Shopworn Angell' are "amous Players-Lasky releases—I may say that I do not as yet concede undisputed leadership in the audible field to this organization.

To be sure, their features are not kimped in personnel, settings, costuming or photographic quality, but their conversational sequences are not always as clearly recorded as they might be. This was impressed upon me during certain passages in "Interference" and now the suspicion seems to be corro-

What the Elementary Schools of Washington Are Doing Educationally

A Series of Brief Articles Prepared Under the Direction of Superintendent Frank W. Ballou

There is no definite time allotment for the excursion, but the time required for the trip is usually deducted from that which is given on the program to the subject with which it correlates. The length of the trips and their frequency vary with the needs and interests of the pupils. Results.

By means of excursions, interests are broadened and stimulated, alertness is developed. first-hand information is acquired, and powers of observation are strengthened A group of children in the first grade is taken to the farm. There are two farms close to Washington, where classes are wel-

YOUR INCOME TAX

Well, to us it brings only heart pangs. Ye ed, who got his first job there, has tender memories of the old Crown street plant with its cramped quarters, its creaky stairs, its early Horace Greeley furniture, its cave-like pressroom, and particularly the curious little hole in the wall that for years was the stereotyping department under Bill Young. It was reached by a sort of cat-walk running from the advertising room.

In this, the hottest room in the world, Bill and his gang worked over the oldest metal stereotyping devices in captivity. The managing editor's interest lay in a "wheel" Bill used to spin to see who would send the pall to Ihne's for the beer. (Note: Fifteen cents a bucket.)

Mercedes Gleitz has broken her engagement on the ground that marriage would interfer with her swimming. The farmer is required to report in the pall of the gross income and compensation for professional services.

XXIII.—SCHOOL EXCURSIONS

Alms and Purposes.

The aim of the school excursion is to give the children some of those experiences which will lead them to become good citizens and to develop in them an appreciation of Washington through direct contact with the unusual advantages offered. It also alms to develop an appreciation of relationships and a broader point of view. The excursion not only furnishes the best method of giving the child worthwhile experiences, but also serves to present knowledge concretely. The type of excursion varies with the interests and needs of the pupils.

Methods of Instruction.

The excursion grows out of the class-room activities in connection with history, geography, civics, nature study, elementary science, industrial and fine arts and hygiene. Careful preparation is made for each excursion in order to furnish the necessary background. There are also discussions during the trip and after the return to the classroom. In the lower grades the excursions, while more frequent, are apt to be of shorter duration than those taken by more advanced classes.

Time.

There is no definite time allotment.

Ban Is Urged On Utilities' Use of Radio

WBAL of Baltimore Would Have to Close if Black's Amendment Is Passed by Congress-Might Affect WRC and WEAF.

If the amendment to the radio act roposed by Senator Hugo LaPayette Black, of Alabama, is adopted, which apparently isn't likely this session at least, it would preclude public utility corporations from operating radio stations. This would mean the closing down, among others, of station WBAL, in Baltimore, operated by the Consolidated Gas and Electric Light Co. Likewise stations WEEL, Boston, Edison Electric Illuminating Co.; WENR, Chicago, Edison Commonwealth (Insul! interests); WTAM, Cleveland WTBO, Cumberland, Md., Cumberland Electric Co.: WFBM. Indianapolis Power and Light Co., and KPIU, Alaska Electric Light and Power Co., Juneau. The opinion was also ventured that the Radio Corporation of America having been licensed as a service corporation, might be classed as a public utility and might be affected. If so, there would be a remote possibility of it closing down station WRC in Washington, likewise WEAF and WJZ in New York, all three of which are owned by the RCA

As drafted by Senator Black, the restricting public utility amendment reads:

"No permit for the operation of a radio station shall be granted to any public utility corporation or to an individual operating a public utility corporation, or to any corporation in which the stock is owned in whole or in part by a public utility corporation or the officers thereof, or to a corporation which is affiliated with a public utility corporation. If any permits have been previously issued to such corporation or individuals, they shall not be hereafter extended, but they shall be revoked."

Judge E. O. Sykes, vice chairman of the Radio Commission, who was testifying before the Senate committee considering the radio bill last week, explained that the commission at this time is deadlocked on the application of the Richmond Development Co., which proposes to construct a station at Roanoke, Va. This company, he declared, is admittedly a public utility, and in its original application to the commission stated it desired to establish the station to "promote a better understanding" between public utilities and the people. The vote of the commission. he declared, was two for and two against, with Commissioner Pickard not voting.

Senator Black, the author of the antipublic utility amendment, was born in Alabama in 1886. He is a lawyer and a veteran of the World War. He began his practice in Birmingham in 1907, served eighteen months as police judge, from 1915 to 1917 as prosecuting attorney and from 1919 to 1927 in general practice in Birmingham and was elected to the Senate in 1927.

How to Keep Well

NEGRO IS GETTING BETTER.

man. His death rate is still more than 50 per cent higher than that of his white neighbor, but he is catching up. The negro birth rate is falling, but the decline is not as rapid as hat of the death rate. In consequence, in most groups, the negro population is now increasing by reason of excess births over deaths. There is some negro immigration from the West Indies, but it is not equal to one-tenth of the white knmigration from all countries. Therefore, if the negroes are to maintain their ratio of one-tenth of the population, they must do so by maintaining a considerable excess of births over deaths.

As the result of a detailed comparative study of insured negroes, Dr. L. I. Dublin concludes that negroes 50 years of age and over are about as healthy and have about the same life expectancy as whites. The great menace to negro life occurs in youth, and particularly in infancy. Negroes pay a very heavy toil to consumption but this is decreasing man. His death rate is still more both instrumental and vocal, her ancestors and her mother being leading opera singers of a few years ago.

I was prevalled upon by my family to assist her, which I gladly did. I arranged for the trying out of her voice, which was reported to have brilliant possibilities for the young lady's erratic engagement. These are the things that make sober souls gasp. But gasping is a healthy pastime for sober souls. In short, P. G., I think it would be great if 75 per cent of the suffering sopranos in New York City alone would go back to Main street and sing in the choir, especially when they fall in love on sight! You will never forgive me I know, but that's just what I think and to do.

LABOR.

I watch men swinging girders on a bony structure tail.
I watch the busy masons laying bricks along the wall.
I see great columns rising and then comes the thought to me:
It's the workers of the Nation that have brought this thing to be.

By the miracles of labor grow the cities that we boast.

By the miracles of labor grow the cities that we boast.

Some human hand has fashioned every beam and joist, and post, and the coast lines of the sea and the coast lines of the sea and this world, without his toiling, still a wilderness would be.

Not from instinct grow great structures or the animals would build. All our temples and our churches are the work of toilers skilled, Every home and hut and paisce, every ancient dome and new Are but symbols of man's progress and the tasks which he can do.

Search the paths of selfish idlers some such monuments to find, Nothing stands to mark his journey, by such monuments to find,

Nothing stands to mark his journey, by

All the comforts we now boast of: all the besuty that's displayed

Mark the miracles of labor and the majesty of trade.

to develop pneumonia. Erysipelas almost passes the negro by, as does skin cancer. Negroes survive major operations well.

On the other hand, negroes have a high general cancer rate. Whooping cough is very prevalent and very deadly among them. They are subject to smallpox. Pneumonia is one of their chief menaces and heart disease is another.

self I know and when you have natural ability why throw it away just to be come married?

The trouble with roung people to-day is they never think of the future; just the excitement of the moment is their only thought. The trilling example of the moment is the column to novelty of being married and watch them stare, all with the clement or novelty of being married hope of seeing their names in electric lights and thrilling the world.

A Fool-Proof Bag:

The fool-proof bag—it's the amartest thing you ever saw, in the first place, and in the second place don't forget that you can carry all out-doors in it if you want to!

It doesn't crush, or scratch, or lose its shape (which, by the way, is a very smart one), and the prize-win-ning feature of the whole thing is that you can make it yourself! You but have to send a stamped, self-addressed envisione to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this weeks' illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make it, thats' all.

In anticipation of these weather turns many of the couturiers this year are using the lovely light wool fabrics, such as the various types of kashas, which are remarkably able to supply the needed warmth in cool weather, yet to be perfectly comfortable on warmer days. Some of them place attractive fur trimming, not to heavy, where its additional warmth will help protect the wearer against inclement spells. Odd, and delightful trimming—re-member the belt that fastened with a double row of large wedding-like look-ing gold rings—threaded through with leather thongs? But most attractive of all, to us, is the smart little jacquette, or "paletot," of shaven lamb or kid, harmonizing Afme. Dare's Fashion Letters appear every Sunday in The Post in Washington. D EAR MISS McDONALD: ask you a question based on a recent experience. "Which is the most important for a girl with ability, marriage or a career?"

My experience that prompts the question is this: A young stenographer and South obtained a one-Spade contract

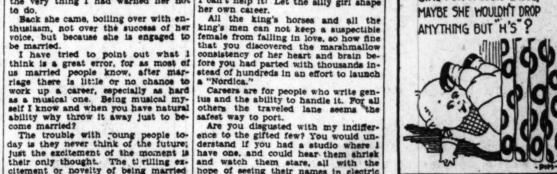

West made the inexcusable opening of the Trey of Hearts which, as it denied the Ace, might seriously deceive his partner; the lead should have been the Six of Clubs, the Ace of Hearts, or the Queen of Diamonds. In my opinion the Club would have been the wisest choice; but if West wanted to open Hearts, he should have led the Ace. On the small heart North played the Jack, East won with the King and returned the suit. West won with the Ace and led a third Heart, hoping for a ruff which did not materialize. Dummy taking the trick.

A Diamond was not Dummy's sound in my employ for 'we years became acquainted with my two daughters, who are older than she is, and there seems to have grown up a very close friendship.

Prom my daughters I learned that this young lady was a born musician.

Well, you know, P. G., when it comes to careers I am strong for love and marriage, and with good reason. I live, when not on the wing, in the city of near-careers. New York. And if you could hear all at one time the contraltos, sopranos and tenors that I have heard laboriously reaching for notes you would agree with me that what this

Danville, Va., Feb. 11.—Doctors tonight despaired of saving the life of Elisha P. Botts, young Ringold farmer, who, with his brother, F. P. Botts, were injured at Dundee Crossing by a Southern Railway engine today.

In addition to internal injuries, the right side of Elisha Botts' face was crushed. His brother has a spinal injury. They were returning home. The engine appears to have backed into their car, and to have pushed it some distance before the socident was discovered.

Chicago, Feb 11 (United Press).—The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, in a statement tonight, denied as "absolutely false" that chemists of their company have been instructed to prepare oils that could be used to remove denaturants from industrial alcohol as implied in a resolution introduced in Congress today.

The statement explained that Stanolax, the product named in the resolution presented by Representative Sproul, of Kansas, demanding an investigation, was a mineral oil laxative.

Fog and Choppy Waters Halt S-4 Safety Tests

Aboard U. S. S. Mallard, Off Key West, Fia., Feb. 11 (AP.).—Heavy fog during the morning and a choppy sea in the afternoon prevented further tests today of the new safety device aboard the submarine S-4, and further escape tests by means of the oxygen-infiated lung were postponed until tomorrow.

The Mallard and the rejuvenated submarine were anchored tonight. The lung has been proved successful in depths of 40 and 76 feet. It now remains to hold the tests from a depth of 110 feet, which if successful, offiers in charge of the operations believe, would prevent future disasters such as befell the 5-4 late in 1927 when are was rammed and sank with a loss of 40 lives.

The lady of the footlights, not so deeply in love with the son and heir, is invited, as a ruse, to remain in the household, in the hope that she'll become bored with good society and go back to her eight-sheets and make-up. Under the antagonizing roof she falls in love with one of the relatives, the Duke of Warrington—and he with her; but, on the duke's side, there is a lady in the case, and therein lies a four-cornered complication. It worked out to the everlasting honor of the actressand this is the bit of tragedy almost hidden in a comedy that sparkles perhaps brighter than any from the pen of Frederick Lonsdale.

Tex., policeman, who is visiting in San Antonio and stopping at the Lachapple at the Lachapple and that the soldier was in another own when Lachapple came home. Mrs. Lachapple was also present in the house when the shooting took place. Taylor called the police after the sizyins.

Most people are honest. About 98 out or 100 would turn to The Post "Lost and Found" columns if they wanted to get in touch with the loser of an article. After you're met with this missionance your loss in the classified columns of The Post.

By JOHN J. DALY. An excellent all-English cast—and therefore equipped to portray caricatures of its own countrymen—present "The High Road." There is, in truth, not a flaw in the presentation—from the broad burlesque of the cockney, played by Alfred Drayton, to the exaggerated old grouch of Frederick Kerr, a bit never to be forgotten by those fortunate enough to watch an artist at work.

Miss Edna Best is cast in the pivotal role—the actress; a clear-cut comprehensive, repressed study of determination. Herbert Marshall, as the Buke or Warrington, drawn between two loves, is splendid—and so, too, the easy rendition of a role by H. Reeves-Smith, easy, thas is, to the eye. He plays the father of the boy. Lionel Pape, well remembered for his perfect performances of cads, and more cads, is back again in one of those unctuous roles he ances of cads, and more cads, is back again in one of those unctuous roles he graces so well. Hilds Spong it is who comes off gloriously in the part of an unrelenting lady ever at odds with her husband—and the shafts they shoot at each other!

There is little or no action in this comedy, of the super-drawing room type; but the machine guns are out all the time; and the conversational bullets whiz through the air like the splash of rain on a tent top.

Whenever people dislikes each other, as most of them do in this play, they should send for Mr. Londale to frame cutting remarks and observations; to be handed out ad lib. It is to laugh!

Witness Testifies Man Reached Around Another to

Chewning, Charlottesville automobil chewning, Charlottesville automobile salesman, who pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with the murder of James K. Symmers, of Rye, N. Y., a University of Virginia student, sat calmly with his wife as the mountaineer told in simple English his story of the shooting. Chewning paid close attention to the witness, occasionally speaking to his wife.

Denied It Was Accident. Largin said he came to the University Hospital on the night of December 3 to bring a sick child. Shortly afterward, he said, he walked by the lunch car near the campus and went in to get something to eat. As he entered, he said he saw a man draw a pistol, reach down behind snother man and shoot a third man.

English climate was displayed in one of its worst phases today, the second of King George's stay at Craigwell House A biting east wind in the morning brought on, of the coldest days in the whole winter and tonight it had become a furious gale. So forbidding was the weather that Queen Mary did not venture out all day for either driving or walking in the grounds.

Inside Craigwell House, however, everything was warm and cozy, and, although no medical bulletin was issued today, it was announced that the king was making satisfactory improvement. He did not sit up but was propped on a pillow and had his bed wheeled to a window whenever the sun made one of its brief appearances. He enjoyed the spectacle of the sea being whipped into spray by the wind. shoot a third man.

Largin went to his home near Dublin on the night of the tradegy, he testified, and thought no more about it until he heard the wife of the railroad agent at that place read from a newspaper that a man had been accidentally shot in the lunch car. He said he told them it was not an accident; that the railroad agent told the city judge and he was summoned as a witness.

On cross-examination he said there was not enough time for him to catch the gun and prevent the shooting.

"I have lived in the Western Virginia mountains and there you don't have time to grab a man's gun," he said.

Accident. Defense Contends.

Accident, Defense Contends.

The State announced at the opening of the trial that it would attempt to prove that Chewning deliberately killed Symmers and that an eyewitness would be introduced to give this testimony. The defense said it would undertake to show that Symmers was killed by a bullet from a pistol dropped on the floor of the lunch car and discharged by accident. Guethary. Franco-Spanish Frontier.
Feb. II (A.P.).—News reached here today that several of the leaders arrested after the short-lived revolt in Cludad
Real and Valencia have been released.
Among them are Gen. Francisco de
Aguilera, one-time minister of war.
Gen. Muga and Hernandes Lazaro.
Former Premier Jose Sanches Guerra, who continues to insist that he alone was responsible for the uprising, continues incommunicado aboard the warship Canalejas in Valencia Harbor. He can be seen daily from the shore pacing the deck. He sent a telegram to his family saying. "I am all right and content." His case soon will be sent to Madrid for the consideration of the up of the pace of trading, total sales dropping below 4,000,000 shares for the first full session in weeks.

Reports that Secretary Melion would issue an encouraging statement on the stock market after the close were circulated about Wall street during the session, and restored confidence to a marked degree. However, nothing whatever was forthcoming from the Secretary, who declined to discuss credit or the Federal Reserve Board in any way. The meeting of the New York Reserve Bank directors after the close brought no change in the rediscount rate, and nothing was revealed as to its purpose, leaving Wall street rather maystified.

Call Funds Dropped to 7 Per Cent.
Call money opened at 8 per cent, the highest renewal rate since early January, but dropped to 7 as funds were attracted by this rate, the Federal Reserve Boards condition statement of weekly reporting member banks disclosed a further increase in borrowings at the reserve institutions, amounting to $39.000,000, and an increase of $133,000,000 in loans, further attention to the brokerage loan situation by representatives in Washington was met with some misgivings in speculative circles.

with some misgivings in speculative circles.

The weekly trade reviews continued favorable. The nonferrous metal shares improved with rumors of still higher prices for copper, and announcement of a $2-s-ton increase in lead prices. A few good earnings statements made their appearance.

U. S. Rubber and Goodysar Tire and Rupber reported slight increases in net ler 1928, despite the acute depression in crude rubber prices early in the rear. Continental Can reported a jump of 51 per cent in 1928 earnings.

Some Advance 14 Points. Copper, rubber, chemical and utility hares were in the forefront of the advance. Peoples Gas, Radio and Otis Elevator mounted 14 points each, while imprican & Foreign Power jumped 11 to a new peak. Chile and Greene Calanes led the coppers with gains of bout 7 and 8 points, the former breaking into new high ground.

Goodyear Rubber mounted 10 points and Columbia, Carbon 12. Union Cardide. Electric Autolite, Westinghouse Sectric, General Electric, National ash Register and American Telephone are among issues mounting 6 to 8 oints. United States Steel and Bethinsm gained about 4 points each come of the rails made good headway, anadian Pacific and Pere Marquette limbing about 6 points.

AND RAILS MOVE UP

General Market Again Is Irregular; Some Issues Sag to New Lows.

FOREIGN GROUP IS SOFT

New York, Feb. 11 (A.P.).—Anaconda Copper 7s, with a 10-point advance, carried the convertible issues and some of the secondary rails upward in today's irregular bond market. A few rails and some of the sugars, however, sagged to new lows for the year. The improvement in the convertibles reflected the stock market's strength in the face of higher money. Sales for the third time this year exceeded $12,000,000.

Active buying carried Alleghany Corporation 5s up a point, to 104, and American International 5½s nearly 2 points, to 107½. Both issues, however, were several points under their high figures established nearly two weeks ago. International Telephone convertible 4½s were another strong spot, climbing 1½ points, and Porto Rican-American Tobacco 5s railied from a low of 103½ to close at 105½, up 2¾ points on the lay.

close at 105½, up 2¾ points on the flay.

The high grade rails were generally soft, Baltimore & Ohio first 5s slipping back a point, and Southern Pacific 4s of 1949 nearly 3 points. Trading in the short line rails was featured by a 4½ point jump in refunding 4s of Uster & Delaware, one of the roads involved in the New York Central's unification plans. Boston & Maine 5s sagged to a new low, at 96½, on reports that stockholders would be asked to subscribe to new bonds under a plan for payment of accrued dividends.

Industrials worked irregularly lower. Bethlehem Steel convertible 5½s irropped a point on profit-taking, but nland Steel 4½s improved. International Cement 5s recovered part of their last week's loss.

Camaguey Sugar 7s dropped to a new ow for 1929, at 29½. Utilities improved with the advance in the stocks. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s irrepped to 167 and railied in the late rading to 195 for a net gain of 2 points on the day.

Selling was fairly general in the for-points.

Curb bonds were irregular, Asso-lated Gas 4½s advancing 10 points with the stock.

Kennedy and Martin have been dividing the honors in their races since the start of the current indoor campaign. In their first appearance together Kennedy took the measure of Martin in the Brooklyn College 1,000 yards and then Martin evened the score at the Newark A. C. last week when he fiashed home the winner in the same distance event. Tonight's victory for Martin made the score one up in his favor.

Four Seconds Short of Record. Kennedy marked his time perfectly throughout the run, but he was unable to match the rapid strides of the Boston filer in the final quarter mile when Martin increased the lead of 2 yards which he held for the greater part of the run to 8 and finally to 10 as he reached the tape. Kennedy's consolation was provided in the fact that he scored over Leo Lermond, of the Boston A. A., when he placed runner-up to Martin while Lermond was third. Martin's time was 3:072-5, exactly four seconds short of the record set by hroughout the run, but he was unseconds short of the record set by Lloyd Hahn in 1925. Lermond was the victor of the Milirose 1,000-yard run saturday night in Madison Square Carden and Kennedy's triumph over him tonight was not slighted by the crowd.

HUGGINS SEES PITCHING AS YANKEES' CHIEF BURDE

Right-Handed Mound Star Sought

Success Hinging on Return to Form by Pennock, Moore.

Yanks' Pilot May Discard Plan to Move Koenig to Third.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent).

(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Wanted by the New York Yankees: A star pitcher, right-handed preferred, but a southpaw will be accepted, who can win 20 games.

Although Miller Huggins has a difficult problem to solve on the left side of the infield, he is worrying more about his pitching staff than about shortstop and third base.

The Yankees' pitching problem hinges on rejuvenated arms of Herb Pennock and Wiley Moore. If these two pitchers report in shape and are able to regain their effectiveness, the world's champions pitching staff will need no help, but the reverse may be the case.

Waite Hoyt, Henry Johnson, George Pipgras and Tom Zachary are the veterans Huggins is counting on to form the backbone of the pitching staff. Help is expected from three youngsters—Ed Wells who won 25 games and lost 7 for Birmingham, Gordon Rhodes who won 17 and lost 10 for Hollywood and Ployd Van Pelt who won 26 and lost 11 for the Montgomery Southeastern League Club.

Huggins Would Have Rommel, Of Athletics, Is Report.

Of Athletics, is Report.

Huggins, however, would feel safer with one more dependable pitcher. Ed Rommel, veteran right-hander of the Athletics, has been mentioned as the pitcher Huggins is seeking, but Connie Mack thus far has shown no inclination to deal with the Yankees.

The reported Lou Gehrig-Mickey Cochrane trade never got past the early stages, if even it got that far. Huggins, when he heard of the trade from newspaper men, said he wouldn't trade Gehrig for Latty Grove and Cochrane, the outstanding battery in the American League, which was as much as saying he wouldn't give Gehrig for the entire Philadelphia ball club.

Huggins' early plan to shift Mark Koenig from shortstop to third base, and play Lyn Lary, the 23-year-old Pacific Coast flash, at shortstop may be abandoned, and Koenig kept at his regular position. Sam Byrd, a fleet outfleider, may be given a trial at the hot corner if Koenig stays at shortstop.

Giants Seek Pitcher and Giants Seek Pitcher and Right-Handed Outfielder.

Right-Handed Outsielder.

The New York Giants would like to swing a deal for another pitcher and a right-handed hitting outsielder John J. McGraw has high hopes that Carl Mays, the veteran submarine hurler, who was signed last year after he had been given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds, will win a regular berth. After spending the winter in Florida, Mays believes that he has rid ha arm of the neuritis which halted his career last season.

Beneficiary Broke His Leg in Previous Contest.

THE Rockville-Arcadian soccer game, upon which hinged the champion-ship of the Capital City League and which ended in a row Sunday, will be replayed, it was ruled by the executive body of the circuit last night. The game will be played on the Silver Spring Field and will be in the nature of a benefit game for Bruce Carr who.

received a broken leg in the match on Sunday.

It is planned to play the game next Sunday providing the Washington Soocer League will consent not to schedule a counter attraction on that day. One official of that league stated last night that he did not think there would be any difficulty in postponing the Washington League game, as on two occasions this season the Capital City organization postponed all games to give way to important Washington Soccer League matches.

Regret was expressed by officials of the Capital City League last night that the Rockville-Arcadian game ended as it did Sunday. It was the general opinion that spectators had caused the majority of the trouble and with proper policing most of the confusion would have been avoided.

(Associated Press Sports Writer).

To jump or not to jump—that appears to be the question now in the game of basket ball.

The proposal put forward by Dr. Walter Meanwell, of Wisconsin, that the tip-top at center be relegated to the ash heap and a pass from beyond the sideline be substituted has not gone entirely friendless. Cornell, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo in the East have come out in favor of such a change.

None of these institutions is possessed of any particularly attenuated centers and that fact may have something to do with their stand.

Certain it is that Coach Ed Kelleher, of the Fordham Team, that appears likely to rank at or near the top in the East is emphatically against the proposal and it may not be entirely because his own great team has a 6-foot-2-inch youth at the pivot post either. (Associated Press Sports Writer).

Fordham Coach Opposed to Abolition of Tap-Off.

Kelleher thinks the idea is of a piece with the one about junking the dribble which came very near finding its way into the official rules a couple of years into the official rules a couple of years ago.

"Doing away with the jump at center," he said, "would take away one of the most spectacular features of the game, just as abolition of the dribble, would do."

Burprisingly enough it was a team coached by Dr. Mennwell himself that proved decidedly that a team with a tall center is not blessed with an asset that is sure to make it a winner. Only a few days after Meanwell had unburdented himself to this effect, his own Wisconsin team stopped the beanpoie of Purdue, Stretch Murphy, in a game that will go down as one of the classics of the Big Ten.

baseman, and the rangy type is finding favor in the tackle posts in football as well as on the ends. You could hardly help matters by passing a rule that would limit the tall boys' activities.

Until that night the 8-foot-6-inch Murphy had been running wild. Operating from a dizzy height above the heads of most of his opponents, this human giraffe had been dropping them in at a pace that seemed destined to break all scoring records. A pass fed to Murphy was as good as a basket. 25 Points Not Enough for Princeton Victories. How Wisconsin put a stop to that is history and the hero of the fray was a leech-like Wisconsin unpronouncable who spells it Hank Kowalczky. Both he and Murphy made four points and the rest of the Wisconsin team, which runs to height as well as speed, had enough of an edge to win by 31 to 26, thereby depositing Michigan, the surprise team of the conference, at the head of the big parade in Purdue's place.

The experience of Princeton seems to indicate that 25 points are not enough to win its basket ball games. For five games in a row, strangely enough, the Tiger team scored exact 25 points, but was victorious only on

Ruth Writes Name With His Right Hand

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher New York Glants) I went into Babe Ruth's room at a hotel down South last spring, and saw a rope stretched across it from corner a rope stretched across it from corner to corner, and at least 500 neckties draping over it.

It's some wardrobe the big Bambino totes around with him. He wears only blue or brown suits, but he sure has plenty of them. I saw his pressing bill for one week. It was $28.

On a table by the head of Ruth's bed were several packages of little white cards, like calling cards, but larger—about the size of playing cards.

HUNTERBOWS Hopkins to Entertain TO VAN RYN IN UPSET

Beaten; Victor to Meet Tilden.

N EW YORK, Peb. 11 (A.P.)—John Van Ryn, of Orange, N. J., sixth in the national tennis ranking, today defeated Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., second only to Bill Tilden in the list, in the Brooklyn Heights Casino indoor invitation tournament. The scores were 2—6.

Heights Casino indoor invitation tournament. The scores were 2—5. 7—5. The scores were 2—6. 7—5. 7—5. By his victory Van Ryn won the right to meet Bill Tilden, recently restored to the good graces of amateur tennis. Big Bill did not play today. Van Ryn, amashing through from behind to win the match, finished strong while Hunter weekened and slowed up under the fast pace. Van By drew round after round of applause as he blasted Hunter's lobe and whaled over fine placements in the final set. Turning point of the match, a decided upset, came in the eighth game of the second set. With Hunter leading four games to three and 40-30 in points, Van Ryn reeled out the game and won three of the next four games and set. Again in the third set Hunter led in games, 5 to 3, before Van Ryn increased both speed and power to win four straight games and the match.

2 D. C. Women Golfers Oualify in Miami Event

Miami, Pia. Peb. 11—Two Washington, D. C., players, Mrs. Monroe R. Miller and Mrs. Houston Harper, today qualified for match play in the annual Miami women's championship goif tournament over the Miami Country Club course today. Mrs. Miller went out in 56 and returned in one stroke more for a total of 113. Mrs. Harper turned in a card of 70—64—134. A heavy rainfall accounted for many high accres.

Breaking the woman's course record by several strokes, Miss Heien "Billie" Hicks, 17-year-old school girl of Hewlett Park, N. Y., led the field of 81 starters with a card of 40 - 38 - 78, only six strokes above the men's par for the layout. Mrs. Leo Federman, of Great Neck, N. ', 1.nished in second place, eleven strokes behind.

HIS SILENCE BROKEN

The inside story of his stormy career---His struggle for, with and against the American League Clubs.

BAN JOHNSON

ends the speculation and tells the truth about baseball as he alone knew it while the president and the storm center of the American League since its birth in 1900.

> Mr. Johnson has consented to write in a series of three articles to be published in The Washington Post the authentic story of his

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS IN BASEBALL

PLAYERS STOLEN UNDER COVER OF

NIGHT

It is an absorbing recount of his experiences in the rough-and-ready days of baseball by the man who single-handed combated all opposition that threatened the life of the game.

He tells them all notably: How the American League opened war on the National League, gutted entire clubs of their stars, invaded New York with a team of stars stolen under the cover of darkness from the Pittsburgh Pirates and finally forced the National League to accept peace terms as laid down by Johnson.

THE CASES OF JOHN M'GRAW EDDIE COLLINS AND TRIS SPEAKER

How Christy Mathewson and Frank Bowerman were returned to the National League to soothe the ruffled feelings of the owner of the Giants and how John McGraw put the Baltimore American League Club out of business for one day by his desertion to the Giants. How he handled the stars and manipulated the big deals which startled the American League in more modern days, including the Carl Mays case and the transfer of Eddie Collins to the White Sox and Tris Speaker to Cleveland.

How he combatted the Federal League and forced peace terms.

HIS LOSING FIGHT WITH JUDGE LANDIS AND WHAT ROTHSTEIN TOLD HIM

His losing fight with Judge Landis that resulted into a $50,000 yearly job for the latter and appointment as grand commissioner of the game. The exposure of the 1919 Black Sox scandal. His revelation of how implicated players were "gypped" by one clique and paid off by another.

What Arnold Rothstein told him.

Finally, his decision to fade out and leave behind him $320,000 in salary due him from the league.

Ban Johnson will reveal all in the series of articles that will start February 24 in the magazine section of

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D. The Parent Counselor.

The Unhappy Side of the Triangle.

I T HAD been a hard day for Father

Jones. He was tired out and looked forward to the good meal, an evening at home, a quiet smoke, the newspaper and a bit of radio.

But as luck wouldn't have it, the dove of peace was somewhat ruffled
As he pushed open the side door he

of peace was somewhat ruffled

As he pushed open the side door he could hear daughter Mary arguing with her mother. Sharp and bitter words were being freely passed. Jones knew he was in for it.

"If it isn't this all-fired boy business." and he to himself. "it's Mary's smoking, or else its something to do with reading trashy stuff. I wish they'd shut up—at least until I get through a meal."

But CONVERSATION CORNER.

Technique or Beauty?

I am considered very beautiful. But I'm not the most popular. I get one or two dates with a fellow, and then I'm flat. Why? Girls not nearly as good-looking get plenty of dates.

Answer—A beauty expects mem to layish attentions upon her. She thinks said he to himself. "it's Mary's smoking, or else its something to do with reading trashy stuff. I wish they'd shut up—at least until I get through a meal."

His soup was flavored with: "Other girls do." "You are old-fashioned." "If you think I'm going to waste my young life..."

To give zest to his appetite his meat course was liberelly sprinkled with Mary's philosophy of life... such gems as "Just because you are flat is no reason why I don't need the air."

Father Jones didn't touch his dessert Mary stammed herself out. Mother went into tears. The evening was ruined.

Jones and the Madame hadn't anticipated such conduct. They had made no plans to meet the enemy in advance. They knew little of what things may happen in a young girl's life. Now they were humiliated, disgusted and helples.

The natural instinct of parents in described instances is to shut down on all outside activities, to disconnect the telephone, to forbid boys from coming to the home and to ake sway the allowance. In short, to install a lock after the spare tire has been stolen.

Goethe once wrote, "Anything that liberates the spirit without corresponding growth in self-mastery is pernicious." Great forces in our modern civilization—automobiles jazz, movies and reading matter—have liberated tremendous inner forces which in an older divilization laid more or less downmant.

Love in life and love of life are bound to express themselves. They may be liberated constructively or destructively if repressed wisely this libido, which is mail of us may bring about creative work in art, literature, music, social service and high ideals. Repression of

Convicted Woman Held On Second Liquor Charge

A few hours before Mrs. Mary Flasco, of 312 F street northeast, was convicted on charges of sale and ession of liquor by a jury in Police Court before Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday, an additional charge of sale and possession was placed against her as the result of a raid on her home over the week-

. The first charge grew out of a raid several weeks ago by members of the police vice squad, commanded by Sergt. O. J. Letterman. The police testified they seized a quantity of beer and liquor.

Just before her trial she was taken before Judge John P. Ma-Mahon and pleaded not guilty to the other charges. She was liberated in ball upon her demand for

2 Men Arrested After Wild Chase

One Pint Bottle of Alleged Liquor That Defied Blow

George M. Little's flying aquadron told United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

The police declared they pursued the alleged rum car at a high rate of speed along the avenue and could see Moon breaking bottles in the car. When they overtook the car, police said, Moon's ciothing was asturated with liquor and one pint of liquor, which he had tried in vain to break, was found in the car along with the wreckage of other bottles.

Commissioner Turnage held the men for Police Court action under bond of $500 each on charges of transportation and possession of liquor. An additional charge of reckless driving was placed against Olewack.
